VILLA FIGHTS WAY INTO PARRAL AND THEN TO HIS TOWN

Americans Are Not Molested,
But Former Mayor and Two of His Sons Are Executed
by Chief's Orders.

JUAREZ, Mex., April 25.—Francisco Villa fought his way into Parral, famous camp 125 miles southeast of Chihuahua City, Sunday morning, after a battle which started at daybreak Saturday and ended with Villa's entry at the head of his 1,500 troops Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The town was then looted.

Three American mining men arrived here last night from Parral with the first information of the battle. When they left Parral Tuesday morning, Villa held the town, but later reports stated government troops from Chihuahua City, which left there Sunday on four troop trains, had attacked and a battle was reported in progress around Parral yesterday. This information could not be confirmed as wire communication had been interrupted.

After taking Parral, Villa announced that none of the American or other foreign properties would be molested and that all of the 40 Americans employed in and near Parral would be protected. He ordered Jose de la Luz Herrera, former mayor of Parral, and his two sons, executed Monday.

The elder Herrera was mayor of Parral when Maj. Frank Tompkins' cavalry squadron was attacked by Villa's expedition in Parral during the general pursuit of Villa toward Las Alamos. Durango. Herrera attempted to stop the demonstration and aided the Americans. This, and the fact that he was the father of Jose de la Luz and Maclovio Herrera, were believed to have been responsible for his execution.

One of the two sons of Herrera, executed was Melchor Herrera, former mayor of Juarez. The other son was Federico Herrera. Jesus Herrera, a third son, escaped.

Entering Parral, Villa is reported to have renewed his demands on American mining companies for heavy tributes in return for protection of foreign property from damage at the hands of his followers. Several months ago Villa demanded $1,000,000 gold from the companies operating in Chihuahua state as tribute, and including several of the Parral district companies in the demand.

The attack which resulted in the capture of Parral was made from the east side of the town and was met with stubborn opposition by the federal garrison, which numbered 500 men, including Gen. Gomez. An attack by Villa in direct- ing the attack was Gen. Felipe Angeles. The casualties in the recent fighting were not known by the refugees.

COTTON MEN TOLD OF OPPORTUNITIES

Manufacturers Hear Noted
Experts Discuss Problems of Present Day.

NEW YORK, April 25.—America can afford to charge up to waste the cost of her war-born mercantile marine, but she cannot afford to neglect the trade opportunities it offers, declared George W. Norris, of Philadelphia, in an address here at the annual convention of the national Cotton Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Norris said it might be better for private capital to charter government boats manned by naval reserve crews than to buy the craft outright. This, of course, he said, would reduce demands on capital, facilitate enrollment of the necessary personnel and avoid injury to the shipbuilding industry by throwing so much tonnage on the market.

The merchant marine question also was discussed by William Porter White, of Lowell, Mass., and J. D. Massey, of Columbus, Ga., while "labor conditions" was the topic selected by Henry P. Kendall, of Boston.

Harry F. Atwood, of Chicago, author and attorney, another speaker, asserted that if the people of the United States would return to their constitution "and follow it strictly," they would find in it "an antidote for Bolshevism."

"Every state in the union instead of using the constitution as a model is trying to see how far they can vary from it," he asserted. "On business men want to strip the federal government of every head and commission. We had few the first hundred years and it is quite time we returned to those simpler forms."

COMPANY! What a memorable moment, when she tripped down to meet HIM—her first sweetheart—her destiny! The impudent face of that ancient clock seemed not to observe the flutter of a feminine heart, nor did it raise a hand in protest as Love began to weave that wonderful tapestry called Courtship.

Every comfortable home is a monument to someone's thrift. Thousands of homes in Europe have been wantonly destroyed. American thrift can help rebuild them—can restore the sunny home life of Belgium and France.

One way to be thrifty is to buy bread in big loaves. Big loaves conserve in the bakery, for they require less labor, less fuel, fewer pans. But, most important, they conserve in the home, for they have less crust in proportion, and, through baking to a closer texture, retain their moisture better and stay fresh. We bake Betsy Ross only in the large size. You will find it the finest flavored bread you've ever tasted, and good to the last crumb.
